How to download If you have a digital camera or scanner, you can upload pictures to your computer without problems. Any scanner or digital camera can make documents like a photocopier. The scanning and printing of documents, images and designs is easier than ever with the help of the digital technology. To scan your paper documents, you must first load them into your computer. As a rule, documents that are copied from other people are much better scanned than originals. If you plan to scan in color, you should either buy a dedicated color scanner or use a different software that can easily scan color images. If you have a scanner that can only scan in black and white, you can colorize a scanned image to restore the colors and remove any flaws in the image. Before you print, you should see what kind of paper you will use to print your original. Since paper sizes vary, you should either get a good-quality one or try to scan the document as close as possible to the intended output format. The quality of the output printing will depend on the scanner, printer and the original document. Most scanners are for photos, but there are also commercial scanners that can scan documents and make them into PDFs.

- Use a high-quality scanner (if possible)
- To scan a black-and-white document, first scan the white paper
- To scan in color, you can try a different scanner or use a colorization tool, which can transform black-and-white images into color
